Examining the ribbon held by Phil is his day, Fred Francis, a former 4-H'er himself and son of the late Fred H. Francis of New Lenox for whom the 4-H fair site is named. His widow donated the land as a memorial for her husband who was intensely interested in 4-H work.

Forget Those Calories!

For those who like to eat at St. Mary's parish of Mokena is offering a tempting menu for its annual family style chicken dinner to be served Sunday, Aug. 12.

The menu lists fried chicken, whipped potatoes, gravy, green beans, fresh garden salad, rolls and butter, homemade pies and cakes and a choice of coffee, tea or milk.

Serving will begin at noon and continue until 5 o'clock.

The dinner is to be served at St. Mary's Social Center, 195th street and Wolf road. The price for adults is $1.75, for children of school age it will be $1 and the pre-schoolers can eat for 35 cents.

An added attraction will be the "Country Store" where one may buy a variety of good things to eat, including homemade candies, cookies, bread, chili sauce, canned goods, sausages and many other delicacies turned out by the women of the parish.

Weitendorf Detachment Case Is Given New Life

The question of detaching a portion of the Weitendorf school district and attaching it to the Mokena grade school district is still to be decided.

At a hearing before the Will county board of school trustees the night of July 31 the petition was dismissed because of a technicality in the description.

Since then it has been discovered there was an error in the notice for the hearing. This means that the situation is back where it started, according to County School Superintendent Verne E. Crackel.

The petitioners can now withdraw their petition, which has been held to be faulty, and file a new one, they were informed by Mr. Crackel. A new date for hearing would then be set and a new notice given.

The petition asking for the change in the districts carried 37 signatures, a number which Crackel held to be two-thirds of the voters of the area involved as required by law.

But Sherill Weichbrodt, attorney for the Weitendorf district, raised another point relative to the sufficiency of the petition -- the description as to its southern boundary.

The description read: "... On the south by the east-west line of the southern boundary of the Alexander S. Duncan subdivision."

Weichbrodt said the subdivision does not extend over the two sections involved in the petition and that from the description one could not ascertain the southern subdivision.

Robert Fuley and his wife, Jean, who served as spokesmen for the petitioners, said the intent was clear -- that the southern boundary line was to be extended across the area.

Paul Thurlow, a trustee who is also an attorney, moved to have the petition dismissed.

Mrs. Fuley was reported upset at this and protested that all present -- there were 40 persons present for the hearing -- were aware of the area involved and that the petitioners had only the interest of the children and their education in mind. She added that she believed "this was a matter of individuals and not lawyers."

A recess was taken at which Weichbrodt conferred with the directors of Weitendorf school. He then told the trustees he would withdraw the technical objection.

Burt Thurlow said the board could not accept this when the trustees knew the petition was insufficient because of the error in description. Whereupon he again made a motion to dismiss the petition. There was a second by William Gray, of Joliet, and on roll call Thurlow, Gray, Robert Hohenstein and Richard P. Oetter voted for the motion. Presiding and not voting was Howard Harsbarger, vice president. The president of the board of trustees, Harold Patterson, was absent.

The petitioners had hoped to have their petition granted so the change could become effective immediately. According to Mr. Crackel, who by virtue of his office is secretary of the board of trustees, if a new petition is filed and allowed any change in the two school districts would not become effective until July 1, 1963.

But for the error in the hearing notice the petitioners would have to wait a year before filing another petition, according to the law, Supt. Crackel said. As it is they can file one immediately.

Mr. Fuley said they were interested in transferring from the Weitendorf from a safety factor as well as an educational standpoint. Detaching the area from the Weitendorf district, he pointed out, would eliminate the necessity of children crossing U. S. 30, and besides this they believed more educational advantages could be had in the Mokena system.

At the start of the hearing Supt. Crackel pointed out that both District 154 (Weitendorf) and District 159 (Mokena) operate recognized schools and the petition would not affect the ability of either to continue operating schools.

Mokena district has 421 pupils, Weitendorf 36; the tax rate in the Mokena district is $1.232, in the Weitendorf district 67.2 cents per $100 of equalized assessed valuation; Mokena district has a bonded debt of $206,000; Weitendorf has $17,000 of bonds outstanding.

Frankfort Village Board Adopts Tax Levy Ordinance

The Frankfort village board at its meeting Monday night adopted the tax levy ordinance for the current fiscal year.

The levy this year -- the amount a taxing body hopes to raise thru taxes -- is $22,769 which about $2,800 less than last year's. This would make no difference in taxes, Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark pointed out. The only difference is that last year the amount raised in taxes was substantially short of the amount levied while this year, he said, it is probable that the total taxes raised on real estate and personal property will be quite close to the levy figure.

Krusemark estimates that taxes will produce approximately $21,586, including the village share of the town road and bridge, or only about $1,100 less, which is considered quite close.

The village also will realize approximately $13,700 in taxes on the bond and interest account, $1,200 to pay on old bonds and about $12,500 to pay on the general obligation bonds sold when the sewer project was launched.

Besides the money to be derived from real estate and personal property taxes the village expects to get in another $30,750 from other sources, it was explained at session Monday night so it will have some $66,000 to meet proposed expenditures of $108,914 as outlined in the appropriation ordinance.

The village board knew, of course, that it would not have the funds to meet all the appropriations but it is necessary that appropriations be made. Municipal funds may not be expended for any purpose unless that purpose is set up in the appropriation ordinance.

The recent audit of Frankfort's finances show that the 1961 assessed valuation for the village was $4,158,387 or $356,995 more than it was the previous year.

Of the $21,500 expected to derive to the village thru property taxes approximately $5,300 has been allotted to the department of public affairs; $5,500 to the police department; $4,300 for garbage collection; $4,900 for street repairs and maintenance; $2,000 for street lighting; $750 for engineering and attorney fees and $250 for park purposes.

And as was mentioned before some $12,700 will be raised by taxes to pay bonds and interest.

Valy Resigns As N. Lenox Fire Chief: Bormet Acting

Frank Valy, New Lenox lumber dealer who for the past 20 years has served the fire department of that community as its chief has resigned the post.

In his letter to the board of trustees of the New Lenox fire protection district asking for acceptance of his resignation Mr. Valy pleaded press of business and other demands upon his time.

The board accepted his decision with regret and has named Otto Bormet, the assistant chief, as acting chief. The New Lenox department is made up of volunteers but the board of trustees of the fire protection district appoint the officers.

Bormet's appointment as acting chief has its beginning as Aug. 1.

Valy and Bormet have worked hard in building the New Lenox department into an efficient fire fighting unit.

It was about 20 years ago that the New Lenox fire protection district was formed and Frank Valy was its first and until now its only chief. After the district was organized and some money began to come in from the tax it can levy the trustees began to purchase some equipment and supplies. Until then New Lenox had to depend upon a bucket brigade and garden hose to battle a blaze until help could arrive from neighboring communities.

It is the hope of the department that the day is not too far off when New Lenox will have a central water system with hydrants installed at the prescribed intervals. As it stands now the water supply is limited to what can be carried in tanks and it can pump from Hickory creek.

The board of trustees is made up of three men, John Francis, president; Edwin Dickson, secretary and Amos Bruns, treasurer.

The New Lenox fire district is bordered on the west by the East Joliet fire protection district, on the east by the Frankfort and Mokena districts and to the north by the Homer districts.

STORY HOUR at Frankfort's library delights these youngsters, as their expressions show. This picture was taken when the pre-schoolers visited the library Tuesday from 1:30 to 2:15, which is the time that members of Girl Scout Troop No. 379 prepare and tell stories to the children. Every Tuesday afternoon is story afternoon, school age children have their turn from 2:30 to 3:15. First row (l to r): Jeff Petnuch, Johnnie Keener and Eloise Petnuch; second row: Girl Scout story tellers, Marilyn Klier, Linda Thompson and Patty Simpson; Third row: Sam Ewing, Linda Simpson, and Ricky Thomas.

Mokena Fire District Trustees Get Organized

Harold Cooper, Mokena automobile dealer and for many years a member of the Mokena volunteer fire department has drawn the three year term as one of the trustees for the newly formed Mokena fire protection district. He also was elected president of the board.

There are three of these trustees, appointed by County Judge John C. Cowing. The other two are, Roy Kohl, who drew the two-year term and was elected treasurer, and Ray Bernard, who drew the one year term and was elected secretary.

The law requires that the trustees shall be selected from among the electors of the fire district and gives them full authority over the operation of the affairs of the fire department and the district.

The trustees have decided to hold their meetings the evening of the second Tuesday of each month, at the fire house.

One to the first items of business expected to come before the board will be the enactment of an appropriation ordinance and an ordinance authorizing a tax levy. A fire protection district is a distinct governing body and can levy taxes and issue bonds. Bonds, however, may not be issued without a referendum nor can a tax greater than 1 1/4 mills per $1 or $1.25 per $1,000 of equalized assessed valuation be levied without a favorable vote by the electors of the district. The maximum tax that can be levied by referendum is $250 per $1,000 valuation, it was pointed out.

The trustees appoint the officers for the department, purchases equipment and supplies necessary and take such other action as would afford the district better fire protection, the law states.

New Lenox Ready To Pay Off Some Sewer Bonds

Surplus funds having begun to appear from operation of the Village's sewer system, the Village Trustees voted, at their meeting, Aug. 1, to begin redeeming outstanding bonds of Series B.

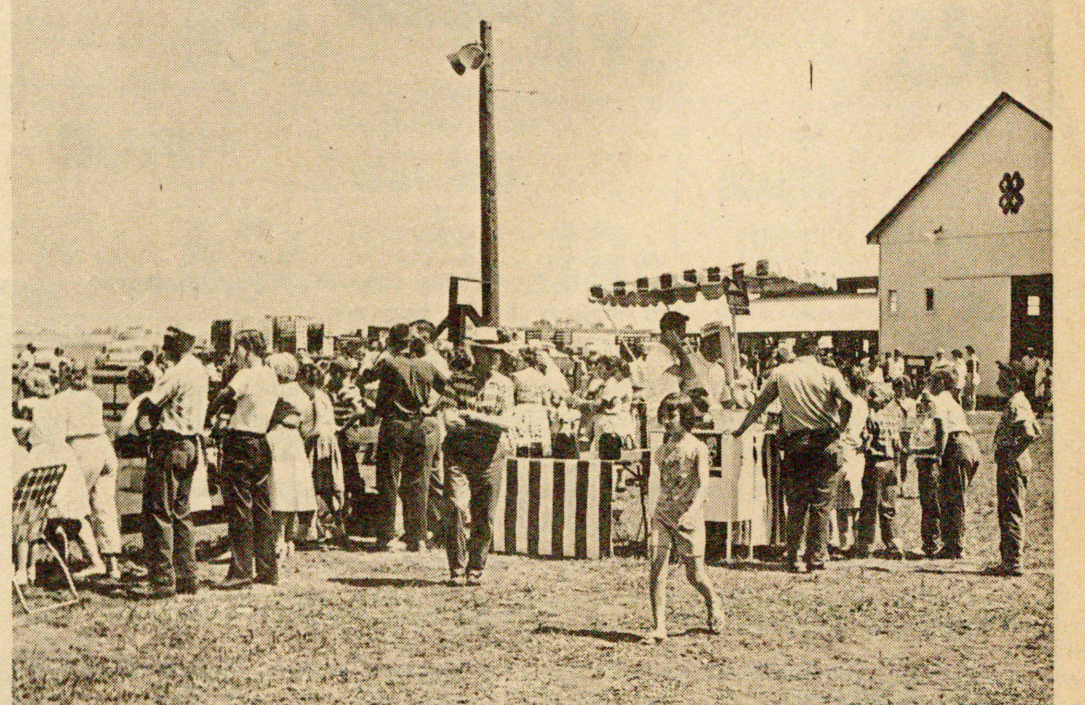

Improved condition of Village streets was discussed, and Trustee Eugene Hunt, the street commissioner, was voted special thanks and recognition for the time that he had spent in supervising the work of the contractor on his job. Trustees cannot receive any compensation for the time that they spend in field supervision of Village projects.

A volume of complaints about speeding within the village limits raised the question of obtaining a radar unit for checking speed. Trustee Eugene McGovney was asked to investigate the types of radar units available and their price and to make his recommendation at the next board meeting. McGovney said that he thought such a unit could be obtained on a trial basis.

As further consideration of the traffic problem, the police board, the police magistrate, the village attorney, and the chief of police were to meet to discuss ways and means of more effective action.

Discussion of a proposed vehicle tax was tabled until the September meeting.

SPECTATORS on this side of the judging ring at the 4-H Fair had an advantage--they could get a snack or a cooling drink without missing any of the activities. It was a warm day cool drinks were in demand.

Cherry Hill and Marley Schools Facing Merger

The Will County Board of School Trustees will conduct hearings on two petitions Aug. 21 that effect New Lenox grade school district, No. 122.

The petitions ask the annexation of two districts to the New Lenox district.

One such petition involved the Marley school, District 125; the other the Cherry Hill school, District 212.

The hearings will be held at the courthouse in Joliet, it was announced by Verne E. Crackel, who as county superintendent of schools is secretary of the board of school trustees. The Marley petition is the second on the agenda and is scheduled for a hearing at 8:30 o'clock. The hearing on the Cherry Hill petition is set for 7:30.

The New Lenox and Cherry Hill boards are in practical agreement on a merger of the two districts. Cherry Hill does not want to become a part of Joliet district 86 and has reached the point where it cannot go it alone. Overtures were made to the New Lenox board several months ago and certain details worked out before the petition was filed.

Indications are, however, that there will be opposition to annexation of the Marley district by some of the residents there.

Several years ago the then New Lenox school board expressed a willingness to take in the Marley district but there was opposition in the Marley area then and that a majority wanted to maintain their own school was demonstrated by the fact that a referendum to build a new school was carried at a special referendum. The new school, now in use, was built and the old school that fronted on U.S. 6 was closed. The new school is east of the highway in Marley.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Benck, Hadley Rd., entertained at a family dinner on Sunday, July 29, in honor of their son, Ralph and family of Baltimore, Md.

Besides the honored guests, those present were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hanson and twin daughters, Cathleen and Colleen, of New Lenox; Miss Ruth Benck of River Forest, and Mrs. Carl Carlson and daughter, Rita, of Joliet. In the evening they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Benck and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benck, all of Blue Island.

Between 60 and 70 members of the Michael Ott family gathered at the Rod and Gun Club in Fairmont Sunday afternoon, July 29, for the annual reunion. Games were enjoyed with prizes for the winners. Dinner and supper were served. The committee arranging the affair were members of the Clarence Ott family. Next year the family of Mrs. Marie Ott will be in charge.

On Aug. 12, Rev. Cox will use for his sermon topic, "What Price?", elaborating on the truth that our motives must be sincere if we are to be effective Christians.

Mrs. John Marks, N. Cedar Rd., attended a post-nuptial shower Thursday evening in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Elmer Stelter, in Chicago Heights. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Jack Mansel, the former Linda Henko who is a niece of Mrs. Marks. The gifts were of tupperware and very handsome.

Mrs. Robert Shepherd Sr., attended a meeting of her doll club in the home of Mrs. Theresa Papeh in Joliet on Wednesday afternoon.

Arbury Hills School Plans Book Exchange

The Arbury Hills school, of Summit Hill District 161, will cooperate in a book exchange, Tuesday, Aug. 28 and Wednesday, Aug. 29 from 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. The purpose of the exchange is to enable parents to trade or buy textbooks and eliminate the high cost of new book purchases. The school will have the workbooks, needed by all children, on sale at that time. The book lists for the coming school year are available at the school office.

The rapid growth of school population has necessitated a two-day exchange to handle the many parents needs. The eight room school will house nine grades this September as lower grade enrollment has caused the addition of a second first grade. The total school enrollment in September 1961 was 169 pupils. This figure has increased to 225 as the opening of school approaches this fall. This rate of increase is expected to be annual thing as the census indicates a school population of over 300 by the fall of 1965.

The school board is working with its architect on plans to meet the classroom shortage such increase in enrollment would bring to the district.

Frankfort

Mrs. Clara Bennett, of Frankfort, and Mrs. Grace Boll-rath and daughter, Karen, of Blue Island and formerly of Frankfort, motored to Champaign Saturday to pick up Jean Boll-rath who has been attending the Illinois Summer Music Camp.

Miss Suelyn Satterle, of Akron, O., was a visitor in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. James Parker this week. She was enroute home from California.

In spite of the threatening weather evidenced on Sunday, there was a good turn-out for the affair.

The children's races were run-off at an early time, because of the worry of possible storm. The winners of the children's races were as follows: 4-6 Girls, Diane Guntz; 4-6 Boys, Billy Sprinkle; 7-8 Girls, Judy Skinner; 7-8 Boys, Blake Tekotte; 9-12 Boys, Ted Smith; 9-12 Girls, Collene Brady.

Later in the afternoon there were races for the adults. The winners of these races were: sack race, men, John Smith; sack race, women, Mrs. Al Behnke; three-legged race, John Smith and Mrs. Loyd Sprinkle; and wheel barrow race, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hovi.

There were also two main prizes given out. The first prize, a patio chaise was won by Edward Blecha. The second prize, a badminton set was won by Dan Markowsky, the local scoutmaster for the Summit Hill Boy Scout troop.

There was ice cream for all the children to eat, and pop to drink, and other liquid refreshments for the adults to drink. All in all it was decided that this second annual Family Picnic was indeed a success for all who attended the affair.

Billy Mangan, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mangan of Hickory st., returned home from a 24-hour stay in Silver Cross hospital due to an overdose of adult aspirin which he had decided was not such good "candy" after all.

Michael Hovi, his cohort in the aspirin escapade, apparently did not take as many of the aspirin, since he did not require hospitalization. The three other children involved showed no signs at all due to the aspirin. Bobby Burdett celebrated his sixth birthday with a small children's party "ice cream social" on Thursday afternoon. Those present were: Billy and Debbie Mangan, Shari and Vinney Rasor, and Marie Ann, Edward, Michael and David Hovi.

Patricia Lee Burdett, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burdett, was christened at Saint Mary's church, Mokena, on Sunday, July 29. Her godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boland, Mrs. Boland, Sally, is the sister of Bob Burdett. The occasion was celebrated with a family gathering and barbecue in the Burdett back yard.

Looks Like Judges Names Go On Voting Machines

County Clerk Edward J. Barrett and the Chicago board of election commissioners announced in a joint press conference that present plans were to put the candidates for seventeen new superior court judgeships Nov. 6 on voting machines and not on paper ballots. The question was touched off by a demand last week of a delegation headed by Republican County Chairman Hayes Robertson, Chairman Sidney Holtzman of the board of election commissioners inserted the "present plans" proviso, pointing out that a "major disaster destroying voting machines or the addition of one more judicial vacancy thru death or resignation might render use of the machines impossible.

He explained that the city's horizontal-type Automatic Voting Machine Co. machines have room for exactly the 60 offices so far to be filled -- 43 state and county offices and the seventeen superior judgeships -- and that one more judicial vacancy in which an election might be called by the governor would require putting all Superior judges on a paper ballot.

County Clerk Barrett said conferences just finished with engineers of the Shoup Voting Machine Co., whose vertical-type machine is used by the county, has confirmed that the seventeen judicial jobs could be put on the fourth and fifth columns by use of an inexpensive jumper. If all 55 offices (five less than in the city because the suburbs have only five county commissioners instead of the ten in the city) were put in one column, he said, the lever would require a force of 35 pounds to manipulate.

"This would be too too heavy a weight for voters who might have arthritis," said Barrett. By use of the extra columns for the judges and the jumper the force required would be reduced to 8 or 10 pounds, he said

Carpentier Not Having Any Of Candidate Yates

Declaring that a planned testimonial dinner for a deserving man and for the benefit of a highly respected charitable organization "has taken on significant political overtones of a strictly partisan nature," Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier today announced he has withdrawn as a member of the sponsoring committee.

The $50 - a-plate dinner, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 6 in Chicago, will honor William A. Lee, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor-Industrial Union Council, and will raise funds for the Combined Jewish Appeal of Metropolitan Chicago.

Now announcement has been made that the principal speaker will be Congressman Sidney R. Yates, Democratic candidate for United States Senator and opponent of Republican Senator Everett M. Dirksen. "I am distressed that the original very laudable purpose of this testimonial dinner has become completely overshadowed by an effort to advance the political fortunes of a partisan candidate, and I must, therefore, withdraw as a member of the sponsoring committee," Secretary Carpentier said in a letter to the chairman, Samuel Smith.

"As sincerely as I desire to participate in a tribute to Mr. Lee and to assist the Combined Jewish Appeal, the unfortunate selection of Congressman Yates as the principal speaker for this occasion, accompanied by the attendant publicity which has already been distributed, is in such poor taste as to leave me no alternative," he said. Secretary Carpentier called Smith's attention to the testimonial brochure in which the words, "To Honor our Friend and Leading Citizen," appear twice and are placed so they relate to pictures of both Lee and Yates, and also to the biographical sketch of Yates which identifies him as "the Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator," and as "an important Administration supporter."

"I regret that as a member of the sponsoring committee I was not consulted on the choice of the speaker, as I would have taken the opportunity to register my disapproval of the selection of any partisan political candidate as the principal speaker for such an occasion, particularly on Oct. 6, in such close proximity to election day," Mr. Carpentier said.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

O'Mally — William Michael O'Malley, he was christened but people must have thought that the supply of christian names had been exhausted when he was named because no one ever called him anything but O'Mally, not even his wife—O'Mally, to begin again, and the author of his corner, were having a spot of what could be called tea the other afternoon.

A man at a nearby table had gotten up and walked out. Moments later I chanced to look where he had been sitting and there in chair was a wallet. I started to call O'Mally's attention to the fact.

"Yeah, I see it," he interrupted, and started to push back my chair he laid a hand on my arm. "Leave it be," he advised. "The man that owns it will be coming back in a couple of minutes. He'll miss it when he gets in his car and sits down and doesn't have that lump of a wallet biting into his hip."

"If you give it to the bartender you'll have to tell the man when he comes back and so he will be suspicious of you and the bartender. And if he isn't — he will always think that you or the bartender helped yourselves."

Your correspondent disagreed, holding the position that gratitude at recovering his wallet would take precedent over suspicion.

At this point the man re-entered and hurried over to the table where he had been sitting. From the relieved look he had when he saw the wallet I figured that it must have been well furnished. He opened it, made a hurried inventory . . . he checked it again . . . he looked at us, he looked at the bartender . . . there was suspicion in his glance. . . he hesitated a moment as to about to speak but then thought better of it. He looked at the contents of the wallet again, glared at the bartender and us again and went on out.

"I think you were right, O'Mally, I think that if I'd turned the wallet over to the bartender that man would have believed that we had taken something out of it."

"Sure he would," O'Mally answered. "You can never tell what reaction a person may have after he had lost a purse and had it restored."

He signalled for more tea. "I mind once," he went on, "when I was operating a gas station for Standard. I had put some gasoline in a car and was wiping off the windows. The driver had told me to never mind checking the oil. He paid me and then decided to go to the wash room. I always notice the license plates on cars that come in for service and I noticed this car was from Montana."

"A few minutes later I made a check of the wash room and there by the wash bowl was a nice fat wallet. I could see there was money in it but I didn't get nosy. I did see an ID card in the front with a man's name on it and an address in Montana."

"Well, I said to myself, that fellow will be back pretty soon so I put the wallet in the safe and went on about my business. The man didn't come back, tho. After a couple of days had passed I took the wallet down to the office and turned it over to the credit manager. We looked at the money then and it counted up to a hundred and ten dollars. Figuring the people had gone on to Montana the credit manager bundled up the wallet and sent it to the man's address by registered mail with return receipt requested."

"In about a week the receipt came back, the credit manager told me."

"I was somewhat surprised about a week after that to see this car with the Montana license turn into the station. I recognized the man and the woman in it as the couple that had been there before."

"Say," he said, as soon as he stopped, "did you find a bill-fold a couple of weeks ago?"

"I did, I said, and I turned it over to the credit manager. He sent it to your home and someone there signed a receipt for it so it is waiting for you in Montana."

"Hear that, mother," he said turning to the woman, "I told you you could depend on Standard. Yes sir, those Standard executives are alright."

"He appeared to be on the point of pulling out so I asked him if he needed anything for his car."

"He appeared dubious. 'Well, you might check the oil—no, never mind, I am going to stop for the night about 20 miles from here and I'll fill up the tank and have the oil checked there."

"Just as he was about to put the car in gear he turned to his wife — I suppose it was his wife—again: 'Bygolly, Mother, when we get home I must thank our Standard dealer for the wallet.'"

"And off they went without a thanks or a goodbye."

O'Mally snorted. "The likes of him—calling his wife mother. I suppose he did have a mother sometime but I'll bet he never knew his father."

Business & Finance

MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Predictions of recession are not being made by all financial sources.

One of our favorite financial reviews is found in Fortune magazine's "Business Roundup". The August issue is particularly interesting. This writer has consistently refused to believe a recession is in store.

Fortune expresses part of its lack of willingness to agree with many others on the state of business, on the fact that many economists are relying on what is known as "leading indicators" which is an analysis method originating in the National Bureau of Economic Research.

The article notes that those placing reliance on these leading indicators, believe that once enough of these indicators have called a peak, the economy will shortly go into a decline.

The article notes that these indicators gave false signals when business activity simply leveled out for a period. They point out just this happened in 1955-57, 1951-52, 1947-48, and 1925-27. Western Europe has had like experiences.

The belief is expressed that even growth economies proceed in a jerky manner of fits and starts with slow downs that are hardly to be termed recessions.

Business Roundup refuses to believe we shall experience even a mild recession such as 1960-61. They believe that expansion forces such as construction, should continue to advance and have not stopped their advance. The small increase in industrial activity in June is explained by special situation in the steel industry.

Too many financial writers will refer to inventory positions as being too high or too low and state the arithmetical position as proof. Business Roundup relates average inventories to sales which is the only basis on which to judge whether they are too low or too high. They find that inventories are now the lowest in five years in relation to sales. They also report that the inventory to sales ratio is very close to the ideal relationship as shown by this magazine's own survey.

The magazine also notes that the desire for low inventory to high sales may well be due to special happy circumstance as high car sales and easy steel deliveries. Such conditions don't hold for long.

It is estimated that the reluctance to increase inventory position must give way to inventory accumulation, in the face of increased sales. The further point of interest is that inventory positions have been closely watched since early 1961.

The Chairman of the Federal Reserve board, McChesney Martin, recently stated that a recession is reported, but the figures do not reveal the condition at this time.

Scrap steel prices which rise with increased steel production demand, advanced $6 per ton a few days ago. Paperboard one of the most sensitive of indices, has been showing an impressive rise in bookings.

Aluminum manufacturing facilities must again be increased to keep pace with demand. The regular repetition of excess capacity and shortage of capacity, is an old refrain in this expanding industry.

The magazine article notes that consumer spending earlier this year, was a larger percentage of income than usual. Over the past ten years, savings have averaged about 7.2 per cent of disposable income and in the first quarter of 1962, the savings averaged 6.7 per cent of disposable income.

The loss of consumer confidence thru the stock market decline is expected to be of short duration.

Retail trade generally is up. Too many financial sources merely repeat popular predictions which are unsupported by the logic thru which conclusions are reached.

Congratulations 4-H'ers

The 4-H members of Will and the southwest section of Cook counties are to be congratulated on their accomplishments the past year as demonstrated in the exhibits at the annual 4-H fairs, held on the Fred A. Francis 4-H field on Francis road in New Lenox last week.

The Will county 4-H'ers had their show Wednesday and Thursday. On Saturday the Cook county clubs moved in.

Until the Fred A. Francis field became available the Will county club used the facilities of the Peotone fairgrounds for their shows. The Cook county clubs conducted their displays near Chicago Heights until the site was no longer available. Last year they came to Francis field and repeated there this year. It is hoped they will continue to come here.

The past year saw a great improvement at Francis field. An exhibition was built thru public donations. It was finished just in time for the opening of the Will county 4-H fair last week.

With this building available the home economics portion of the fair could be held in conjunction with the exhibits centered about the agricultural phases of the 4-H program. For the past several years the home section was shown at a different time and place. Now it is only a short walk from the barns where the livestock is on display to the hall where one may view the skills displayed in sewing and cooking.

These young farm people are wonderful and their know-how is amazing.

Nor are all their efforts confined to work. They have time for fun and cultural activities too. There are drama groups, musical groups, dancing groups and, of course, there are various sports competitions.

All in all the 4-H program is a marvelous thing. It builds character and teaches self-reliance. It also gives valuable lessons in such mundane things as taxes, accounting, and why there was a profit or a loss.

The 4-H program makes good citizens with a healthy interest in community affairs.

We should also like to commend the adults who have given their support, time and effort in aiding the growth and progress of the 4-H movement. Many of these now, of course, were 4-H'ers once themselves and they are still enthusiastic and sincerely concerned with expanding the program.

The late Fred A. Francis of New Lenox was one of the prime boosters of the program in its early days and for many years served as superintendent of the Will county 4-H fair. His interest never flagged in the movement and after his death his widow gave a portion of the farm as a site for the 4-H'ers to use to build their own fairgrounds.

There are few 4-H fairs held on their own grounds and the 4-H'ers of Will county take great pride in the fact that they have one.

And one may be sure they will be worthy custodians.

What Do Your Tax Dollars Buy? A Lot Of Government

BY MAURICE W. SCOTT
EXECUTIVE SECY, TAX-PAYERS FEDERATION OF ILLINOIS

What do I buy with my tax dollars? The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois today asked and presented an answer to this question.

Money from taxpayers in all walks of life goes to support the local, state and federal governments. Federal taxes are collected in part before the wage earner ever has the money in his pocket — at its source, and by withholding from pay checks. Other federal taxes are hidden in costs of necessities of life; still others are collected and very visible. This money goes for administration of domestic and foreign programs of the federal government, including subsidies, price supports and defense.

State taxes come mostly from the sales tax, various licenses and privilege taxes which go to support state government — providing police protection, highways, helping to support schools, support public aid, etc. "Probably the most visible assets bought with the tax dollar other than the State highways and parks are those at the local government level," said Maurice W. Scott, Executive Secretary of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois.

Taxes levied at the local level largely support county, township, city, school districts and special districts such as sanitary districts, park districts, airport authorities, etc. Aggregate tax rates (total of tax rates extended for county, township, city, schools and special districts) range from a low of 78.9¢ per $100 of equalized assessed valuation in the city of Monticello, county seat of Piatt county, to a high of $4.84 in Benton, county seat of Franklin county, in 1960. Only county seats were included in this comparison.

The average aggregate tax rate for county seats in the state was $3.428 per $100. County services required an average rate of $.343 per $100 or 10% of the total tax. Townships required an average rate of $.293 per $100, or 8% of the total rate; cities had an average rate of $.672 per $100 or 20% of the total rate; schools had an average tax rate of $1.98 per $100, or 58% of the total tax rate; special districts had an average rate of $.14 per $100, or 4% of the total rate.

Perhaps the average taxpayer is more alert to local taxes because he receives a tax bill yearly, and is aware of what local taxes cost, but every day he enjoys police protection, fire protection, access to public schools and public roads, in addition to other privileges afforded by his tax dollars. The main concern of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois and of the taxpayer public is that these privileges are maintained with as great a degree of efficiency as possible.

The Upper Room

Read John 15:10-17

Rejoice always pray constantly, give thanks in all circumstances. (1 Thessalonians 5:16-18, RSV.)

The Christian life is a life of joy. We have some trials and tests of course, but God will not allow us to be tempted beyond our capacity to endure. This truth has been experienced by thousands of Christians around the world.

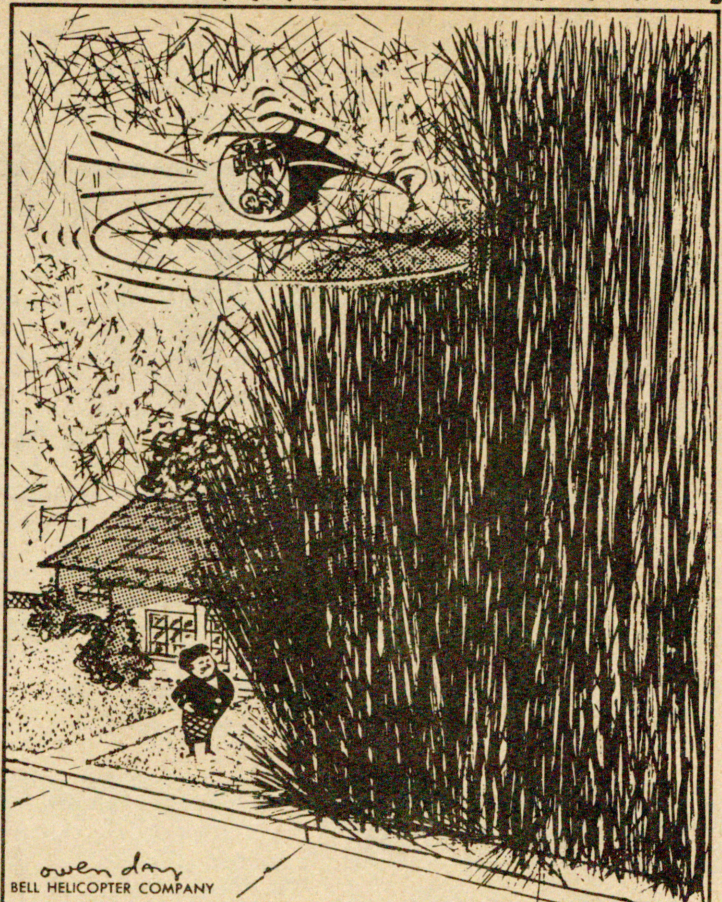

After several earthquakes took place in Chile, a group of church people were found safe, singing a hymn in a small room. Happiness and gratitude were in their hearts in spite of the fact that the church building and parsonage had crumbled away.

Another group of Christians, while the earth below their feet trembled, took hold of one another's hands in order to keep on standing and sang "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." People around were in confusion and despair. In spite of the catastrophe, the Christians' confidence in God was unshaken. Christians in southern Chile thank God for saving their lives despite danger. He has put words of gratitude in their hearts and on their lips.

WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE
COOK COUNTY FARM
ADVISER TINLEY PARK -
532-4369

Congratulations to the 4-H King and Queen, Leslie Yunker, Orland Park; and Joan Uthe, Markham. Joan and Leslie won this award on the basis of their achievement in 4-H project work and activities. They were crowned the evening of the 4-H Fair held Aug. 4. Members of the court were: Gary Berner, Norman Siekman, Joan Stellwagen, all of Tinley Park; and Valerie Klein, Chicago Heights.

Congratulations also to grand champion winners in the various divisions of the fair, and a sincere thanks to the donors of the trophies which were awarded to the young champions.

Two significant 4-H events are coming up in the near future. Aug. 11 4-H plowmen will vie for awards and honors in the annual plowing contest to be held at 159th and Wolf road, (southwest corner) Orland Park. The following Friday and Saturday, Aug. 17 and 18, selected 4-H members will exhibit project work at a 4-H Exposition in the plaza at Park Forest.

Most of the demonstration plots conducted this year by the farm adviser and various co-operators are now complete. I wish to thank these co-operators for their assistance in helping extend the results of research at the university to farmers in Cook County. Results of these demonstrations are being analyzed and prepared now and will be reported in future columns.

The Extension Council, at its recent meeting, elected officers. These officers, with the rest of the Council, provide guidance for the Extension Program in the coming year. New officers are: Chairman, George DeVries; vice-chairman, Fred Niemeyer; secretary, Paul Sanders; treasurer, Erwin Engelhardt.

HOW MUCH CAN I AFFORD TO PAY FOR CALVES? This is a question that no one can answer definitely. However, research at the University of Illinois plus information from the Farm Bureau Farm Management records gives some idea of what it costs to produce a 1000-pound steer from a 400-pound calf.

It will take just about $100 to pay the feed cost of putting 600 pounds of gain on a 400-pound steer calf. It will take about another $25 to pay the overhead items, such as labor, risk, interest, etc. Thus, about $125 will be added to the purchase cost of the calf before he goes to market. If he cost $100 ($25 per hundred), it will take $225, or $22.50 per hundred, plus marketing costs to break even. If he cost $120, or $30 per hundred, it will take $245.00 to break even.

It is easier to estimate costs than to forecast market prices. However, if you have a pretty good idea of what your costs are going to be, you have taken ever they live, Christians always have great reason for rejoicing.

PRAYER: Our Father, we ask Thy help in showing others the joy of Christian discipleship. In Thy wisdom, guide us to challenge them to follow Thy way. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Names of new members of 1962-63 Cook County Agriculture Extension Council were announced recently by Dean Louis B. Howard of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

They include: Harold Bergman, Keith Chidley, George DeVries, Erwin Engelhardt, Paul C. Johnson, Albert Nickol, C. W. Paarlberg, and Leonard Schultz.

Holdover members from last year are: Henry Eichholz, Charles Erickson, Melvin Hoger, Henry Homier, Jacob A. Kellen, George Kloss, Fred Niemeyer, and Paul T. Sanders.

At its first meeting, the council elected officers. The results of this election were: Chairman, George DeVries; vice-chairman, Fred Niemeyer; secretary Paul T. Sanders; treasurer, Erwin Engelhardt.

The council will be organizing itself into committees which will provide leadership and co-ordination of the various aspects of the Extension Educational program, for the coming year.

The County Extension Council is appointed each year by the dean and director of the Co-operative Extension Service at the University of Illinois, according to Cook County Farm Adviser, William F. Whiteside. The Council serves as the official county cooperating group, and as such has certain designated administrative and program guidance duties.

The county farm and home advisers, both staff members of the University of Illinois, work with the County Extension Councils and are responsible for the operation of the Extension program in the various counties.

Farm and home advisers serve all citizens of the county. Whiteside points out, they provide educational material in the fields of agriculture, home economics and related subjects to anyone, regardless of their affiliation with any public, private or commercial group or organization.

In carrying out their responsibilities, county councils and advisers consult with and reflect the interests of as many groups and organizations within each county as possible. As a way to provide local guidance, County Extension Councils continually evaluate the progress and success of County Extension programs and the procedures used in program development.

Past programs planned by the Extension Council that have been generally well accepted by farmers in Cook county are: The annual vegetable growers' schools, a series of three twilight meetings for vegetable growers, twilight meetings at demonstration plots which included oat and soybean varieties, weed control, disease control, and insect control.

The program currently being presented to service organizations, entitled "Food in Our Society" was developed through the efforts of the Extension Council Committee on Community Development and Public Affairs. Chairman of this committee is Paul T. Sanders.

Committees of the council are continuously evaluating the results of the Extension program. If anyone reading this article has suggestions, constructive criticisms, or other ideas which could improve the value of the Extension program to farmers in Cook county, please contact one of the council members.

Hints For Homeowners

BY JAMES FIZZELL
ASS'T. FARM ADVISER

There are many reasons for pruning shrubs; for removal of dead or diseased wood, for removal of over-lapping branches, to shape plants and to keep plants within bounds.

There are three major steps to pruning shrubs: Cut about one-third of the canes to the ground. This will stimulate new growth from the base of the plant. If plants are pruned in this way every year, the growing top of the plant will never be more than three years old.

Cut back tall branches to control height of the plant. Remember, when cutting back branches, always cut to a side bud or branch.

Prune to keep the natural shape of the plant.

In order to avoid drastic pruning which usually ruins the appearance of the plant, it is best to prune a little each year.

Before pruning flowering shrubs, it is necessary to keep in mind how the plant flowers. Shrubs that bloom in the spring and early summer produce flowers on branches which developed the year before. These plants should be pruned immediately after flowering so that new branches can be formed for the next year's bloom.

Examples of plants of this type are flowering almond, forsythia, flowering quince, lilac, mock orange, bridal wreath spirea, and weigelia.

Shrubs that bloom in late summer and fall produce flowers on new wood. These plants should be pruned immediately after flowering in the fall, or early in the spring, so that new wood has a chance to develop. Examples in this group are Rose of Sharon, honey suckle, butterfly bush, hypericum, and hydranges.

Drastic pruning is sometimes justified when plants get out of hand. With some plants, all branches can be cut to the ground, and new growth will develop from the base. If plants that flower on old wood are pruned in this manner, no flowers will appear the first year.

Shrubs that can be pruned to the ground are Japanese barberry, lilac, forsythia, privet, honey suckle, snowberry, and bridal wreath spirea.

Don't believe that old saying about the weather. You can do something about it.

A few well-placed trees and other plants can lower sizzling summer time temperatures as much as 15 percent. Windows on either the east or the west side of the house often present a heat problem. Trees placed here will block the sun's heat rays. They may also provide shade for your family car or for the backyard patio. Often patios absorb heat—and make the area warmer—if they're not shaded.

Trees planted on the southwest areas of the lawn provide a certain amount of "air conditioning" when summer breezes blow through the area. In addition shade from trees provides some psychological cooling. Pools of water give the same feeling.

In addition, vines on the house often absorb some of the heat that would otherwise come directly through the window. And if "stiff" breezes blow when the family is enjoying outdoor living, a windbreak will soften and channel breezes past the outdoor dining area. Planting time will soon be here. By placing trees and shrubs strategically, you can put summertime wind currents to work to cooling advantages.

August's flower is the gladiolus. Few plants are as easily grown or produce such a magnificent display of color as the popular "glad." All that is required for growing these plants is fairly well drained soil and ample water.

Present day glads are derived from species native to South America. Hybridizing by amateur gardeners as well as nurserymen and plant breeders continues to produce new and better varieties each year. Glads belong to the iris family and the flowers and leaves arise from a modified stem called a corm.

It is by the production of corms that glads are propagated. Each year as the glads grow and flowers the old corm is used up. After blooming the plant produces a new corm in which is stored food for the next year. Around the base of this new corm are many small corms called cormels. The cormels are sown in spring and develop into flowering corms in one year.

There are three major types of glads recognized by the American Gladiolus Society. The Grandiflorus, the Primiflorus and the Primiflorus Grandiflorus. There has been a great deal of breeding among the various types so that they are no longer defined. The flowers appear in various forms and shapes, and may be either ruffled or plain petaled.

Glads may be planted in borders or grown for cut flowers in beds. Planting may be started in the spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to work safely. To produce a succession of flowers, plantings are made at intervals of about two weeks until July in our climatic zone. These will provide flowers during July, August and September. Where the growing season is longer, a longer succession of bloom may be obtained. The best depth to plant is determined by the kind of soil and the size of the corms. Large corms should be planted 6 to 7 inches deep in sandy loam and about 4 inches deep in heavy soil. Smaller sizes may be planted shallower. Small corms should be planted in beds or rows in early spring at a depth of about 2 to 3 inches. The soil around these small corms should not be allowed to dry out until they have germinated.

While the plants are growing, all weeds should be kept down. Very shallow cultivation is required, as deep cultivation is likely to injure the roots. In case of drought, irrigation is necessary to develop the best quality of flowers. Gladioli do best when grown in a well drained soil and supplied with lots of water.

The flower spikes of most varieties should be cut after the first flower begins to open. Then, when placed in water, the flowers will continue to open for several days. Four or five leaves should be left on the plant to permit proper development of the corms for the next season. All bloomed-out spikes should be removed, and any plants showing yellow foliage should be dug and discarded. The corms usually mature about six weeks after flowering. They should be dug at that time, before the foliage becomes yellow or brown, as they are more susceptible to corm rot if left in the ground longer. It is desirable to dig when the soil is dry if possible.

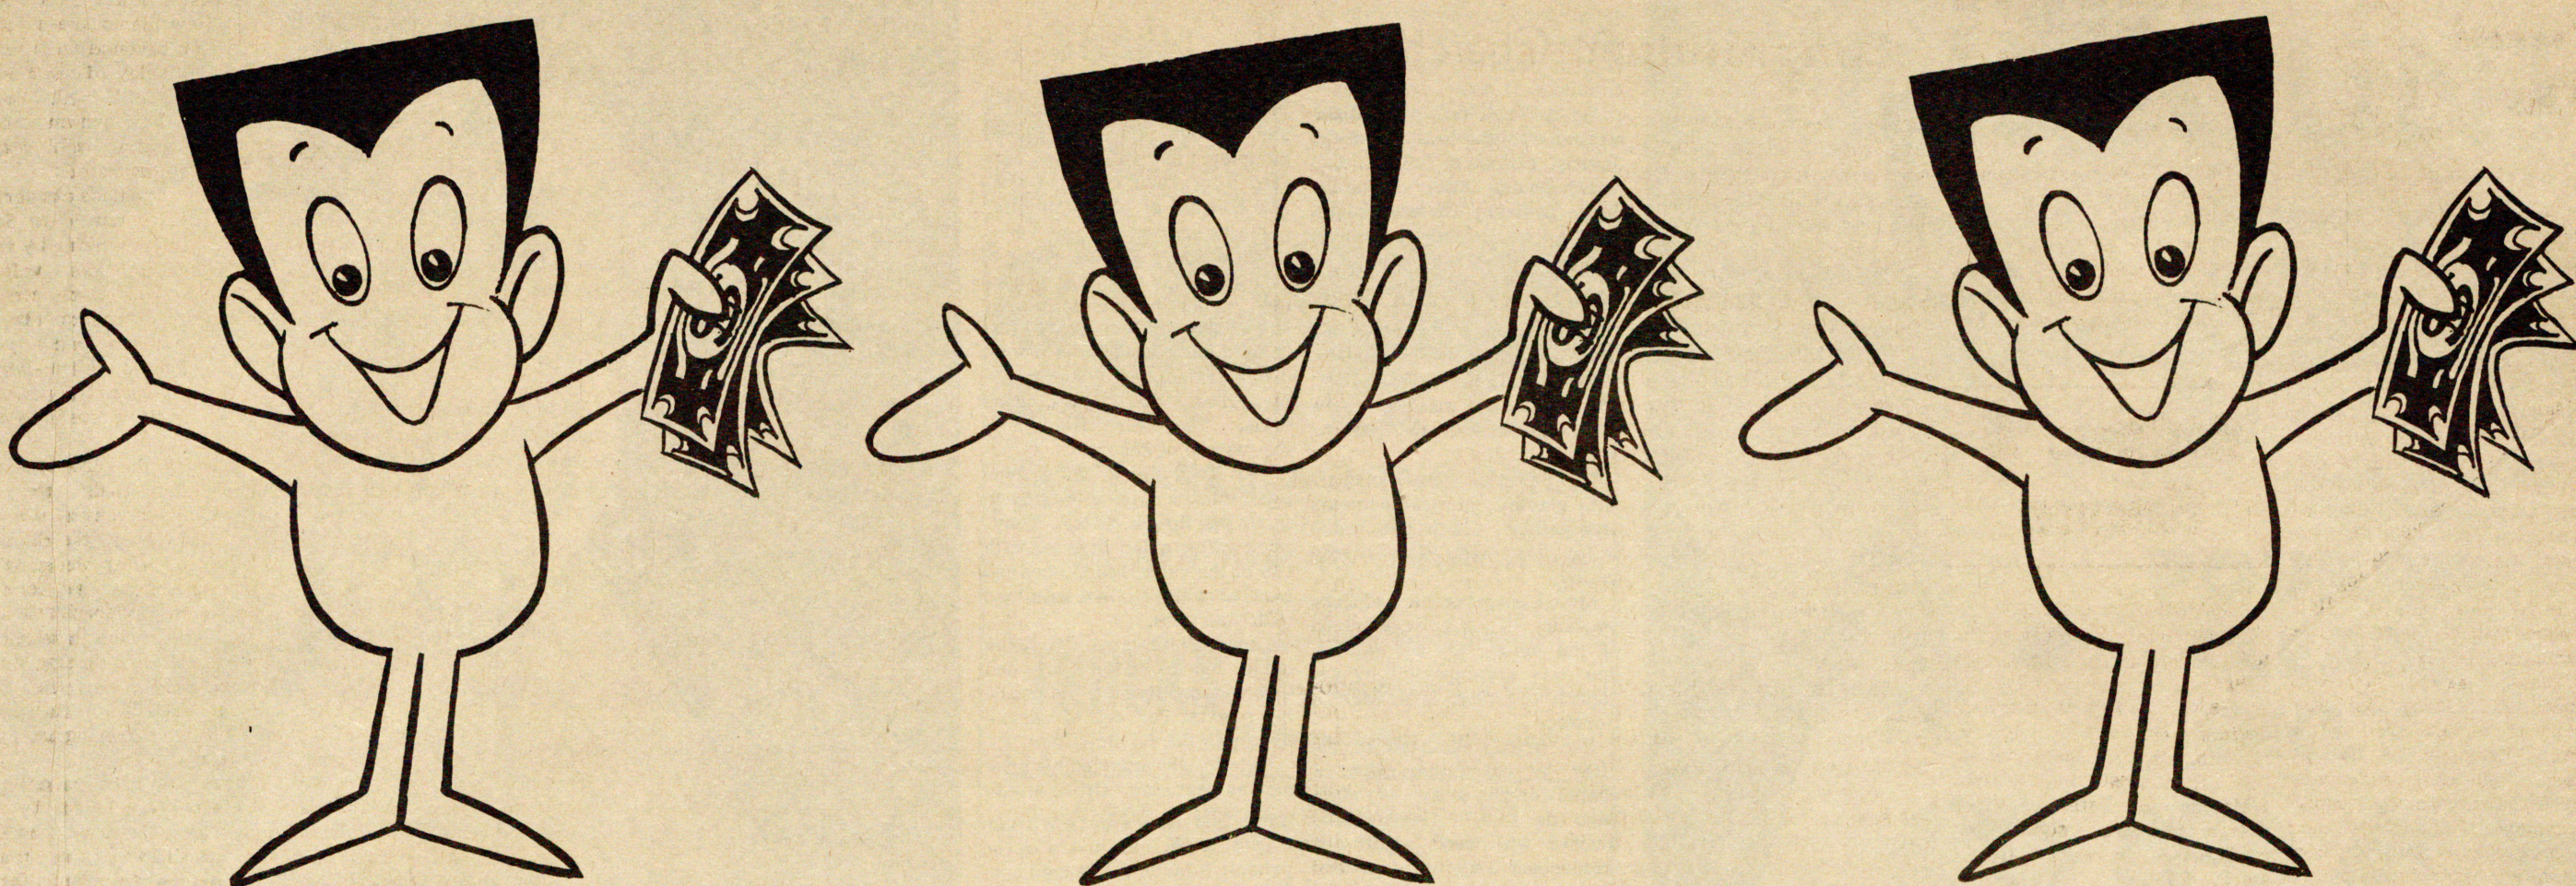

There are about six sextillion atoms in a drop of water.

JOIN THE ^{*}instant people CHAIN

Here's how you can join an Instant People chain and be able to retire early (we don't mean beddy-bye).

The next time you stub your toe while sleep walking, fall over a high chair which belongs to a baby in college, or scratch your fender squeezing into a stuffed garage, jot down the offending objects. Then call your Smiling Advisor (who will listen like a head-shrinker)

Place ad, pay later:

This is where the chain reaction begins... Instant People will keep coming, cash in hand, eager to buy, as long as you have any idle valuables left to sell. The nice part of it is you'll have cash to pay your bills, money to put in the bank---you'll sleep soundly (and won't stub your toe.) There will be nothing to stumble over and you'll have room to restuff your garage and start all over again.

Mokena Teacher Is Married At Church Rites In Joliet

At a 7 o'clock candlelight ceremony June 16, in the First Baptist church of Joliet, Miss Sarah Louise White became the bride of Harry Thomas Voight.

The Rev. Leland M. Roth officiated at the ceremony uniting in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgin White, 215 Mound street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Voight, 1605 S. Chicago street, Joliet. The bride is a member of the teaching staff of the Mokena grade schools.

The church was decorated with gladioli, chrysanthemums and palms. Each pew had a white bow with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Donna Feather, of Crevecoeur, Ill., a college friend of the bride, was the soloist. She was accompanied by the church organist, Mrs. Martha Horton.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a chapel-length gown of white peau de sole. Alencon lace touched with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, enhanced the traditional beauty of the gown. Appearing first at the neckline, the same embroidered lace motifs created lovely designs on the moulded bodice and down the front and sides of the sweeping skirt.

A modified pleated fullness from the waist formed a stately train. A very full veil of French silk illusion flowed from a crown of seed pearls and crystals. Completing the ensemble was a crystal necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. The bride carried an irregular crescent-shaped bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis in the center of which was white and lavender orchid.

Mrs. David Kiester, matron of honor, wore a skyblue silk sheath with matching silk organza overskirt. A cluster of blue silk organza flowers with matching veil, a pear necklace and earrings and white gloves completed her attire. She carried an irregular crescent-shaped bouquet of pink gladioli and white carnations.

Miss Nancy White, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Other bridesmaids were Miss Sandy Starr and Mrs. Diane Egan, sister of the groom. Debra Egan, a niece of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. They were dressed by the matron of honor.

Jodi Jean Voight and Coleen Egan, nieces of the bridegroom, were the flower girls. They wore white nylon dresses with lily of the valley headpieces and carried white baskets trimmed with blue tulle.

Linda White, a sister of the bride, in pink nylon dress and embroidered bodice and wearing a wrist corsage of carnations was the candlelighter.

Gale Voight attended his brother as best man. Other attendants and ushers were William Egan, a brother-in-law of the groom; Melvin Skaggs, of Varna; Harlan Schad, of Bloomington; William White, a brother of the bride and Jack Olivo, Robert White, another brother of the bride, was the page. The reception was held in the church hall immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Gordon Richards, of Mokena, helped with the guest book.

Mrs. White, mother of the bride, greeted guests in a beige silk embroidered sheath with pink accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations centered with pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a lovely blue embroidered sheath charming accessories, crystal jewelry and a corsage carnations centered with yellow roses.

The couple took an extended wedding trip in the west.

MRS. JAMES DENNIS FISCHER

Laureen Weathers Becomes Bride Of James D. Fischer

St. Mary's church, Mokena, was the scene at 11 o'clock the morning of June 9 for the marriage of Miss Laurene Ellen Weathers and James Dennis Fischer.

Officiating at the rites that joined the daughter of the Lawrence Weathers, South Wolf road and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fischer, 949 Asbury avenue, Evanston, was Rev. Cecil Koop.

A white trellis, covered with ivy and fresh daisies, decorated the front pews of the church.

Guest soloists were Mrs. Josephine Weathers, Mrs. Shirley Weathers and Mrs. Therese Lawson.

To traditional music provided by Sister Mary Doris, organist, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza fashioned with a bouffant skirt with a billowing colonial back drop that extended to a chapel train. Silk organza rosebuds and tiny seed pearls framed the round neckline bodice and reappeared on the skirt.

A small elevated crown of sequins and pearls held her finger tip veil in place, and she wore white wristlet silk gloves. She carried a white prayerbook covered with white roses and streamers tied with tiny roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Mary Murdoch, who was garbed in a pale yellow silk organza gown, a large yellow picture hat with a scattering of daisies and small white wristlet gloves. She carried a garden basket of shasta daisies and 'mums.

Identical gowns were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Gazda, Miss Patricia Weathers and Miss Allyson Weathers. Garry Bett acted as best man and duties of the ushers were performed by John Cavanaugh and Larry Weathers, brother of the bride.

The wedding breakfast was held in St. Mary's Social Center and an evening reception followed in a hall at Nordige, Ill.

Mrs. Weathers, the bride's mother, chose an aqua chiffon dress with matching hat and harmonizing accessories. For her son's wedding Mrs. Fischer, was attired in a pink lace

Firemen To Put On Big Show At Music Festival

A Chicago fire department spectacular using more than $1,000,000 worth of equipment will be used in the opening number of the 33rd Chicago Land Music Festival to be staged at Soldiers' Field on Saturday night, Aug. 18.

This was announced by Philip Maxwell, festival director and master of ceremonies. The fire equipment, Maxwell said, will encircle 800 uniformed Girl Scouts as they march on the field when the 2 1/2 hour program begins at 8 p.m. Some 70,000 persons are expected to view this year's festival, in which 5,000 amateur and professional entertainers will participate.

Topping the professional bill will be Robert Merrill, opera star, and Phyllis Diller, one of the country's leading comedienne. Ned Washington, Oscar winning song writer, will be an honored guest at the festival, which will feature many of his songs.

There will be something doing every minute in Soldiers' Field. There will be a 1,500-piece massed accordion band, community singing led by Bruce Foote with the Festival symphony orchestra, the Hallelujah Chorus conducted by Noble Cain, vocal, pinao, and accordion solos, and a mammoth fireworks display at the end of the evening.

One of the most impressive events will be the annual Match-lighting Ceremony. At a signal from Mr. Maxwell, everyone in the huge stadium will strike a match and hold it aloft. This is a spectacle which never fails to thrill the crowd.

Guard Against Racket In Stolen Chauffeur Cards

The theft of 17,500 chauffeur license cards from the printing plant of Eveready Manifold Corporation in Chicago was revealed today by Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter.

Serial numbers of the stolen cards are being forwarded to all police departments in Illinois, Mr. Carpenter said. The cards had been printed and sealed in cartons of 2,500 each for delivery to the Drivers License

Division in Springfield.

The theft apparently occurred during the night of Friday, July 13. An investigation has been in progress since the morning of Saturday, July 14, but little progress has been made in tracing the stolen cards.

The serial numbers are being sent to police departments in an effort to forestall fraudulent use of the cards, Secretary Carpenter said.

Parents Ask $95,000 For Burns Suffered By Son

(CNS) Suit for a total of $95,000 was filed in circuit court Thursday, for a two-year-old Oak Lawn boy burned by a neighbor's trash fire last March.

The suit was filed for Thomas Raddatz, 10112 Keeler, Oak Lawn, by his father, Richard C. Raddatz, and charged a neighbor Catherine Vorderer, 10159 S. Tripp, Oak Lawn, for leaving her fire unguarded and allowing children to play near it.

While Thomas and other children were playing around the fire, March 31, 1962, one of the children lighted a paper torch, and with it allowed other leaves and debris to catch fire, the suit stated. It was charged that Thomas' shirt caught fire and he was severely burned.

The boy is permanently scarred on his body, arms, legs, and feet, and scar tissue prevents him from moving certain parts of his body, according to the suit.

Damages of $75,000 are asked for the boy's injuries, and his father asks $20,000 for expenses and financial losses because of the incident.

Carpentier Says Go-karts Can't Go On Public Roads

Small motor vehicles of the go-kart type cannot, in most cases, be legally operated on public thoroughfares, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier warned today, and asked for police assistance in halting their illegal operation.

This is particularly true of youngsters under the age of 16 years, he said, because the Drivers License Law requires that all operators of all motor vehicles hold valid driver licenses.

In a memorandum to all sheriffs and police chiefs in Illinois, Secretary Carpentier said legal operation of motor vehicles on public thoroughfares requires that the vehicles be registered with the state and display license plates.

"In most cases, we will not issue license plates to go-karts and similar motor vehicles because they do not meet the requirements of the Uniform Act Regulating Traffic on Highways with respect to equipment," Mr. Carpentier said.

"The U.A.R.T. requires that all motor vehicles be equipped with brakes on all wheels, with front lights visible at least 500 feet and with signal devices for indicating the intention of the driver to turn to the left or to the right," he said.

"Since most go-kart types of motor vehicles do not have that kind of equipment, their operation on public thoroughfares by anyone, whether he holds a valid driver license or does not, is illegal," Secretary Carpentier said.

The Robert Olson family of 193rd St. enjoyed a week of camping at Polkagan state park near Angola, Indiana. Margaret Beebe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beebe of Burr Oak Lane accompanied them. They all took part in the recreation afforded them, including badminton, swimming, fishing, square dances and a hayrack ride.

The Victor Peterson and the John Mannel families enjoyed a camping trip together at Totagatic park near Menong, Wis. for two weeks. The Petersons took a side trip for a few days to Mitchell Lake near Ely, Minn. where they did some fishing and swimming. Before they returned to Totagatic park the Petersons stopped at Duluth where they visited friends.

Mokena Methodist church continues its summer schedule thru August. Worship Service 9:30 a.m. -- Sunday school 9:30 a.m. Rev. Robert Watson -- sermon topic this week Subject "By Faith---!" Visitors are welcome.
